

Being Extraordinary

Explore the possibility of inventing yourself as an extraordinary human being

Each of us would like to be extraordinary, to have our lives matter, to make a difference in a world around us. Access to that, however, often seems accidental or out of our reach – as if it were a matter of being born with the qualities or characteristics that would make us extraordinary. In the Landmark Forum you discovered the possibility that being extraordinary is not something limited to a select few, but the quality that life – and you – take on when you are up to something, when your life is about something beyond the constraints of circumstance and history.

This seminar will provide you with the opportunity to examine, to create, and to get hands-on access to what it means to design and live an extraordinary life – a life that invites the unexpected and that which is possible beyond the ordinary. When you are extraordinary, not only does life take on a new level of excitement and possibility, the people around you are called to be everything they can be as well.
